The Church of Tom Jones

Who We are

Welcome weary friend, I hope this day finds you well. I know you're tired, exhausted, and have not the patience nor the mind to read another drab white-paper, filled with nonsense and big words to convince you that you've find a ruby in a pile of gummy bears.

The Philosophy

"To live for today and to love for tomorrow
Is the wisdom of a fool
Because tomorrow is promised to no one
You see, love is that wonderful thing
That the whole wide world needs plenty of
And if you think for one minute that you can live without it
Then you are only fooling yourself"

Tokenomics & Roadmap

As much as that word has become a dirty one, every project has a structure, and here is the TCOTJ's one:

TAXES: initially 5% for both buy & sell, of which 70% is fed into Liquidity, to bolster token price/value, and 30% which is pooled. From that pool money will be paid for the team, however the pool is also to be used for the project, be it to put more into liquidity, airdrop rewards, advertising budget, etc. The community will vote what to do with the funds, and unlike a DAO, everyone's voice is the same, no one gets priority due to their bag size.

As much as I want to do a variable tax, I realize I cannot and renounce the contract, and adding a code to do it automatically means a lot can go wrong, potentially causing transactions to get "stuck", So instead I will keep adding those taxes to the liquidity pool & any other things the project needs.

PENALTY: There is a "Whale" dump tax & a JEET tax. Anyone who sells a large amount in one go, damaging the chart, will pay increased tax as a result. Often called a "Harpoon" tax, the concept is if you cannot sell responsibly, then you pay the premium.

Just kidding. As much as I would like to implement those kinds of codes, it goes against the fair use policy of such a project (we are a meme after all). If this was a utility based project with actual case use, I could see wanting something like that. All I ask is you sell responsibly, but I know the majority won't, heck, I imagine most won't even read this white paper.

Max Wallet size: 2% standard, of course the serial meme killers will use their contract bots to spread out over several. If there was a way to code around them, I would.

SUPPLY: 1 billion tokens. 250 million Burned. 100 million kept to pay/fund development (influencers, advertising, etc), of which a portion may also be burned, depending on the growth of holders & liquidity. Assuming we survive the launch pump and dump sharks, we will do what we can to grow the value of the token as much as possible.

ROADMAP: We sketched out a rough one on the website, but let's be honest, almost no meme project follows one. Most don't survive the first 24 hours on DexTools. I hope we don't get demolished by the pump n dumper's and their bots, and can actually grow.

When/if we grow as a project. We will take to the community on Discord and take votes to see what people want to see. Be it:

- NFT's (I hope you all say no to these)
- RPG Game (this was originally the concept for the project)
- Social Media Viral campaign (spreading the good word far and wide via music and humor all across twitter and YouTube).
- Anything else we haven't thought of that is achievable (No we aren't building a blockchain!).

Most Likely Frequently Asked Questions

◆ Is this a real church / religion?

It's about as real as the tokens you hold dearly.

What is real?

But no this is just good fun & a meme. Relax, you won't be shaving your head or drinking spiked kool-aid.

◆ Who are you?

Who are any of us?

No I am not Ryoshi. No I am not Satoshi. And I'm certainly not Oshi.

In the world of Crypto, Unless you're Elon, or VB, then you're just another false parody of success that apparently is some important icon in a world made of smoke and mirrors.

Ask yourself, would you rather have a questionable somebody, who has the power to do what they want with zero liability? Or an honest nobody, who needs the success and cannot afford to get in a Jam the same as yourself.

If so, welcome, otherwise, Go and buy some Tron, XRP, SOL, ADA & DOGECOIN and keep being a puppet to those who are happy to take your money and manipulate the charts to fatten their digital wallets.

- ### Why Tom Jones?

Do we really need another Messi Token? Another Japanese animal that you've never heard of "inu"? Bitcoin Platinum? ETH 3.6? PulseHexRectangleYeehaw? How many tokens have you seen featuring an iconic legend like Tom Jones this year?

- ### Are you a Crypto Millionaire?

How many millionaires have you seen giving money away that wasn't a tax write-off or a publicity stunt? Would it make you feel better to know that I was rich and was helping you get rich too? Again, when was the last time you saw rich people helping ordinary people get rich too?

If you were rich, would spend time writing code, writing papers, programming apps, developing designs & spending thousands of hours doing boring stuff, when you could be in Venice or the Maldives? I cannot understand why people flock to a "Shib-Millionaire just launched a token on BSC" tweet or message like the second coming.

I assure, the day I become a Crypto millionaire, I'll be doing more fun things and enjoying life.

- ### Will this Project make me 10000x?

Doubtful in this market. They say anything in Crypto is possible, but Murphy's Law tends to apply in the negative sense. This is a community driven token, and the chances hundreds of thousands flock to this project is dubious at best. If I am being honest, best we can see here is a 10x-100x maybe.

I would like to add also that this is not a malicious project, We aren't pumping our own bags here, and we needs this to make it as much as you do. I will also say that if you are really struggling, take a step back away from Cryptocurrency, it's become a hive of negative energy and feeds into your emotions and makes you feel weak and unable to enjoy the better parts of life.

- ### Do you have a roadmap & plan to stick to it?

Yes. This is a meme project, but it's also a genuine one, and not a cash grab. It's a community driven one, and not a Moon-Boi breeding pool.

It's a simple one: taxes are fed back into the project. Increasing the liquidity (therefore increasing token value), a "Vote Pool" (funds collected which the community will vote to either add to liquidity, burn, donate to charity, hold a lottery, etc).

And a portion of taxes goes towards the team to pay them for the hours spent on the project.

Beyond that we are open to ideas, assuming we don't get smashed on launch by all the sharks looking to suck every drop of liquidity out of any project.

◆ This seems totally stupid!

As of 2023, that is Cryptocurrency at it's best. The highest performing token of 2021 was not a utility project, or Bitcoin, or a new Blockchain, but an orange Japanese named Dog token, which exploded (and subsequently slow rugged the majority of consumers who jumped in late to the game). One of the best performing tokens this year, again, not a serious tech driven project or Blockchain, but again a Meme Token.

It's ironic that until now, all the serious tokens have yet to make any dents compared to the meme token market.

◆ No Telegram?!

One cannot give the good word in a telegram, letter or a note. Word play aside, TG has become synonymous with scammers, fake airdrop schemes, and people with IQ's that make Forest Gump look smart. TG isn't what will make this project flourish, we have a discord server, which I think is more peaceful and has less negative energy surrounding it.

If someone wishes to make a TG for the project, you have our blessings, but note no one from the team will be stopping by, so if anyone claims to be the Dev, the Designer, Tom Jones, his mother, or the Milk man, you know what to do.

Final Words:

I hope you read this paper, and enjoyed reading it as much as I enjoyed writing it.

I hope we see you in the discord, and you decide to join us on our spectacular crypto journey to the middle, or just above bottom!

Carpe Diem.

- El Devorino